WEATHER CONDITIONS & TEMPERATURES

The average high experienced in February - March is -20°C (-4°F) and temperatures drop down to an average of -25°C (-13°F).

The average high experienced in October is 1°C (33°F) and temperatures drop down to an average of -4°C (24°F).

November gets even chillier with average highs and lows both in the negative; around -9°C (16°F) and -16°C (3°F), respectively.

Weather and temperatures are highly variable in the Arctic. Wind chill temperature is how cold it actually feels outside when wind is a factor. The wind strips away the warm air near your skin and can drive "feels-like" temperatures down by an average of 10 to 15 degrees Celsius.

No matter the month of your trip please plan to pack clothes that can be layered. Layering your clothes will greatly increase your ability to stay warm during your excursions.
